Torrance High Has New Code in Effect

be successful at one's work, one does not progress far. It is the aim in the Torrance High school to develop in the students a desire to accomplish, to go ahead, to know the joy of success. The mere learning of subject matter, although important, is not sufficient in itself. There must be developed the ability to study efficiently, to think logically and to put thought and effort on the more important things with less stress placed on the incidentals.

"Every human being is a member of one or more social groups; the home, community, club, church,
and so forth and must adapt himself to his place in those groups.
He must learn that laws are for the benefit of all and the individual must put aside his selfish opinions and conform to the rule of the majority. Our country is based upon that principle and every good citizen does his part in maintaining that principle.

"A well organized high school such as the Torrance High school is a community in miniature and students must learn to deal with the situations which will meet later in life. A high school student is not only preparing for life but is actually living a social existence, a vivid, pulsating and intensely real sample of life where the manner in which he meets situations is somewhat controlled and the habit of reacting correctly to life situations is developed.

"Torrance High school realizes the importance of proper social attitude and knowledge regarding social institutions and is laying considerable stress on this phase of education. Adequate training in one's vocation is an essential part of a school program. That fact is recognized at the high school and although it is realized that experts cannot be turned out of high school courses, still, fundamentals can be taught and every fine piece of work being done in several departments of the local school.
Graduates in commerce and auto mechanics, especially, are finding satisfactory employment and are well equipped for their work. Torrance High school graduates have rendered service in a manner which reflects credit to the Alma Mater.

"For students who continue their education in colleges or professional schools, ample and adequate courses are offered. Graduates of the local high school whose grading is satisfactory are admitted to any college or university in the state without examination. The school has equal standing with any high school in California in this respect. There are now more than 25,000 graduates of high schools ending higher institutions of learning.

High School's Goal
"Good health is a vital factor in the struggle toward success. The physical education program at our high school is as fine as any in the state. The equipment is above the average and the personnel of the teaching staff is exceptionally capable and efficient. Particular attention is given to correction of poor posture, poor breathing habits and health. Correct habits of diet, resting and physical activity are taught. The health of the student is safeguarded by having modern buildings, well heated and ventilated, with ample sanitary equipment. A lunch room where wholesome, well-cooked foods are served to the faculty and faculty at actual cost is operated by the students themselves.

"The officials and faculty of the high school are conscientiously endeavoring to make the objectives and principles, as laid down by the state superintendent, the goal toward which all educational and extra-curricular activities of the school are directed.

"The future alone can tell the success of the school in reaching the objectives. This success will be measured by the type of citizens and graduates of the school become and by their accomplishments in life. Torrance may well be proud of its high school and students."

Huntington Library Needs Assistance in Elimination of Tax
In the Huntington Library and Art Gallery at San Marino there are more than forty portraits by the master painters of the eighteenth century. Sir Henry Raeburn, Francis Cotes, Thomas Gains-borough, Sir Joshua Reynolds, John Hopner, George Romney and Sir Thomas Lawrence.

There are tapestries, rugs, bronzes, porcelains, sixteen snuff-boxes which lined boxes in knee-breaches of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries displayed as valuable as modern ladies' flourishing cases; candlesticks, clocks, vases, statuettes and samples of the finest antique furniture in this country. And with this gallery goes the Arabella D. Huntington Memorial Art Collection, with its French porcelains, tapestries, furniture, and sculptures and bronzes, and a remarkable array of fifteenth and sixteenth century (Italian) Madonnas by Isenhardt, Mainardi, Pinturicchio, Bellini and others, and an equally celebrated collection of canvases by Flemish painters, who lived about the time this country was being discovered.

Beautiful Gardens
Mr. Huntington gave these great collections of paintings and objects of art to the people of California. In this gift he included his home and grounds, and his home is now the Art Gallery. For eleven months of the year the Art Gallery, as well as the treasure house of rare books and ancient writing, is open to visitors. It was opened in 1928, since which time it has been visited by over 350,000 persons.

The 207 acres of ground have been beautifully landscaped and planted with rare species from all parts of the tropical and subtropical world. Mr. Huntington sent to the jungles of Africa, India, Japan, Australia, Central and South America for archaic varieties of plants which flourished before there were any flowering trees. Some of the cycads and tree-ferns are as fine as luxuriant as those that formed the forest through which dinosaurs stalked before such forests turned into coal.

The 8-acre cactus garden, with its 16,000 plants is the largest in the world. The 5-acre Japanese garden, with its pagodas and California Cities Exceed Average In Public Works

Public Service Enterprises
In State Show Interest
In Improvements

By the United Press
SACRAMENTO.—California cities are far above the average of municipalities in the United States in operation and maintenance of public service enterprises, construction and maintenance of highways, and provision for recreation of citizens.

These facts were brought to light with comparisons between figures on the subject released by the federal department of commerce, and those compiled by Ray L.
Riley, state controller, for California.

Particularly outstanding was the place of California cities in operating public service enterprises.
Among cities of the United States, only 1.8 per cent of the total municipal payments during the past year went toward public service enterprises.

Highways Stressed
But in California 24 per cent of payments were for such enterprises, which included waterworks; gas and electric plants; wharves, docks, landings, etc.; and municipally owned street railways.

Municipalities throughout the country average but 8.5 per cent of total payments on their streets.
California cities paid out 30 per cent of the year's total expenditures in highway construction and maintenance.

Recreation is an important factor here in the "land of sunshine," where municipalities spent 7 per cent of their payments on providing facilities for play for citizens, while cities of the nation generally invested but 3.4 per cent of payments in this endeavor.
